BANEA 08 WORKSHOP: THEORISING DEATH & DISCARD IN THE ANE & EM

Dear All,

Notice of a themed workshop-session at the next BANEA at Liverpool at the end of Feb.
Contributions still welcome!

Workshop

?Theorising Death and Discard in the Ancient Near East?

First Call for Papers

Session Organiser: Philip Karsgaard, University of Edinburgh
(P.D.Karsgaard@sms.ed.ac.uk)

Recently we have seen an increase in interest in the investigation of ancient mortuary practices in the Ancient Near East. Many of these studies have added to our understanding of the roles that death, and its associated rituals, performances, contexts, materials and conceptions may play in social reproduction, often with a focus on legitimising or contesting political hierarchies in complex and early state societies. Death and ritualisation in social cohesion in the PPN has also attracted considerable attention. In line with one of BANEA 2008's overarching themes, this workshop is aimed at furthering innovative, theoretical investigations of the social role of deaths ? broadly conceived. While mortuary studies retain a focus on the deaths of people, we welcome here papers which explore the deaths or transformations not only of humans, but also animals, objects, buildings, institutions and landscapes. In a world perceived of as full of intentionality, the discard and categorisation of objects as ?waste? (often still left rather under-theorised in our excavations of pits and household waste, for example) may be problematised in similar ways, perhaps, to the transformation of a living social person into something else. Also of interest are the ways in which deaths or transformation act as arenas for social reproduction, in terms of the constructions of personhood, gender and the body, and so on. The generative powers of the deaths of people and things in site-formation and the enculturation of the landscape may be an area for discussion, and it is increasingly clear that deaths and burials of different types play important roles in memorialisation and the construction of pasts. But not only do the practices, behaviours and ritualisations surrounding death act as Durkheimian glues for social cohesion, but are implicated in complex ways in other aspects of social contestation and negotiation, which largely remain to be explored.

While papers from any region or period of the ANE and Eastern Mediterranean are welcomed, we particularly encourage papers which address those issues, regions and periods which may have received less recent attention ? in particular, for instance, the ceramic Neolithic and later prehistory.

Papers should be 20 minutes long, and we envisage plenty of time in the workshop for discussion. Paper titles and abstracts, as well as requests for further information, may be emailed to the workshop organiser; the deadline, as for the conference as a whole, is 16th November.

CALL FOR PAPERS: ANCIENT MUSIC IN THE NEAR EAST AND MEDITERRANEAN WORLDS

The Bible Lands Museum Jerusalem is pleased to announce a conference entitled "Ancient Music in the Near East and Mediterranean Worlds" (PROVISIONAL TITLE) to be held in conjunction with the exhibition "Sounds of Ancient Music".

The conference will examine the formation and function of ancient musical instruments, their sounds and their place and purpose in the lives of the diverse peoples in the ancient Near East and Mediterranean worlds, including Mesopotamia, Egypt, Greece and Rome. Special focus will be given to the place of biblical music in the region.

In the realm of music, the ancient Near East and Mediterranean worlds form a continuum. Along this continuum ideas and systems moved westward but were reformulated in each unique culture along the path from the plain of Mesopotamia to the shores of the Aegean Sea. In this conference, we hope both to survey the range and gamut of this symbiosis as well as to scrutinize certain specific geographical areas along this continuum.

The conference will take place at the Museum in Jerusalem on Monday 7th and Tuesday 8th January 2008, and will consist of two days of lectures and presentations. Keynote lecturers include Prof. Anne Kilmer and Prof. John C. Franklin and other major scholars in the field of Musicology, Assyriology and Archaeology.

Submissions for papers are invited. Presentations should be for 20 minutes, with an additional 10 minutes for questions.

The conference will take place in English. Papers from the conference will be published. The deadline for submissions is 31st October 2007.

For further information regarding submission of papers and registration for the conference, please contact the Conference Administrator at curatorial@blmj.org

CONFERENCE - WELCOMING THE STRANGER IN LATE ANTIQUITY AND
THE MIDDLE AGES, 1-3 OCTOBER 2008,
SEBEL CONFERENCE SUITES,
CHARLOTTE STREET, BRISBANE,
AUSTRALIAN CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

AEMA's fifth annual conference will be held from 1-3 October 2008 at the Sebel Conference Suites, Charlotte Street, Brisbane, hosted by the Australian Catholic University.

The period from late antiquity to the early middle ages was one of great social movement, of both individuals and people groups. How did people respond to demands made upon them for hospitality and charity by pilgrims, casualties of war, refugees, orphans, widows, those of other religions, the sick, the poor, itinerant monks and nuns, travelling traders and others?

Invited speakers:

Dr Anna Silvas, University of New England
Dr Wendy Mayer, Washington DC

Papers are now invited on a broad range of topics related to the theme of 'Welcoming the Stranger', tapping various sources, including literature, archaeology, epigraphy and the arts. A title and a 250 word abstract should be sent by 30 June 2008 to the Conference Convenor. Please include affiliation and contact details with your abstract.

JOB VACANCIES/FELLOWSHIPS

UNION COLLEGE - SCHENECTADY,
NEW YORK -- TWO POSITIONS

POSITION ONE: The Department of Classics at Union College seeks to appoint a classicist for a two-year visiting appointment at the rank of assistant professor. This two-year appointment will begin in September 2008. The area of specialization is open, but we seek candidates with strong philological interests as well as a special area of research that could serve as the basis for interdisciplinary contributions to the curriculum more widely (examples include, but are not limited to, ancient technology, art, archaeology, science, women's studies, religion, ecology/environment).

Teaching competencies must include ancient Greek and Latin at all undergraduate levels as well as general courses in translation (please let us know in your cover letter what courses in translation you would be especially interested in offering). Ph.D. must be in hand by August 2008.

Visiting faculty are fully eligible for travel and research support, and our salaries are competitive. Further information about the department may be found at <http://www.union.edu/PUBLIC/CLSDEPT/>. Applicants should send a standard dossier, including cover letter, writing sample, c.v., and three letters of recommendation. The committee will interview selected applicants at the annual meeting of the APA in Chicago. Applicants should indicate whether or not they plan to attend this meeting, and how they may be contacted most easily, especially during the month of December. Applications should be directed to the attention of Hans-Friedrich Mueller, Department of Classics, Union College, Schenectady, New York, 12308. Review of applications will begin on November 15, 2007, and will continue until the position is filled. Union College is an equal opportunity employer and is strongly committed to student and workforce diversity.

POSITION TWO: The Department of Classics at Union College seeks to appoint a philologist for a one-year visiting appointment at the rank of instructor or assistant professor. This is a one-year sabbatical replacement that will begin in September 2008. The area of specialization is open. Teaching competencies must include ancient Greek and Latin at all undergraduate levels as well as general courses in translation. For higher rank and salary, the Ph.D. must be in hand by August 2008. Visiting faculty are fully eligible for travel and research support, and our salaries are competitive.

NATIONAL ENDOWMENT FOR THE HUMANITIES (NEH) FELLOWSHIPS

Deadline: December 1, 2007

URL: <http://www.ascsa.edu.gr/fellowship/fellowships.htm>

Abstract

The American School of Classical Studies at Athens (ASCSA) offers the NEH Fellowships to enable postdoctoral scholars and professionals in relevant fields such as architecture or art to conduct a research project in Greece.

NEH Fellows will be expected to reside primarily in Athens, contribute to and enhance the scholarly dialogue, as well as contribute to and expand scholarly horizons at the school.

Eligibility

Postdoctoral scholars and professionals in relevant fields who are U.S. citizens or foreign nationals who have lived in the United States for the three years immediately preceding the application deadline may apply.

Applicants must hold their Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree at the time of application.

Amount Note:

Two to four fellowships are funded, 5 to 10 months in duration with a maximum stipend of $20,000 for a 5-month project, and for a 10-month project, $40,000. The term must coincide with ASCSA's academic year, September to June.

ASSOCIATE RESEARCH SCIENTIST, THE CENTER FOR APPLIED ISOTOPE STUDIES (CAIS), UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Associate Research Scientist. The Center for Applied Isotope Studies (CAIS) at the University of Georgia invites applications for an Associate Research Scientist to direct the operations of the CAIS radiocarbon Accelerator Mass Spectrometry (AMS) facility. Responsibilities will primarily involve operation and maintenance of a 500 kV Pelletron AMS instrument for carbon isotope measurement, along with data reduction and analysis. Other responsibilities will include the transfer of AMS technology to campus-based personnel or regional institutions.

The candidate should have a Ph.D. or equivalent experience in physics, and should have demonstrated research experience either in the technique of radiocarbon AMS or high-energy physics. A special interest in marine, ecological, or environmental sciences is also desirable.

To assure full consideration applications must be received by November 2, 2007. Salary level will be commensurate with the level of the applicant's qualifications.

Interested individuals should send a curriculum vita and a statement of research interests, along with names, addresses, and email contact information for three references to Dr. John E. BULLETIN, NEH FELLOWSHIPS 2008-2009 AT THE AMERICAN SCHOOL OF CLASSICAL STUDIES AT ATHENS

Founded in 1881, the American School of Classical Studies at Athens is the most significant resource in Greece for American scholars in the fields of ancient and post-classical studies in Greek language, literature, history, archaeology, philosophy, and art, from pre-Hellenic times to the present. It offers two major research libraries: the Blegen, with 90,000 volumes dedicated to the ancient Mediterranean world; and the Gennadius, with 113,000 volumes and archives devoted to post-classical Hellenic civilization and, more broadly, the Balkans and the eastern Mediterranean. The School also sponsors excavations and provides centers for advanced research in archaeological and related topics at its excavations in the Athenian Agora and Corinth, and it houses an archaeological laboratory at the main building complex in Athens. By agreement with the Greek government, the School is authorized to serve as liaison with the Greek Ministry of Culture on behalf of American students and scholars for the acquisition of permits to excavate and to study museum collections.

In the fourteen years since its inception, the NEH Fellowship program at the American School has demonstrated its effectiveness by supporting projects for twenty-seven scholars with distinguished research and teaching careers in the humanities.

Those Eligible: Postdoctoral scholars and professionals in relevant fields such as architecture or art who are U.S. citizens or foreign nationals who have lived in the U.S. for the three years immediately preceding the application deadline. Applicants must hold their Ph.D. or equivalent terminal degree at the time of application.

Terms: Two to four fellowships, five to ten months in duration. Maximum stipend for a five-month project, $20,000; for a ten-month project, $40,000. Term must coincide with American School's academic year, September to June. A final report is due at the end of the award period, and the ASCSA expects that copies of all publications that result from research conducted as a Fellow of the ASCSA be contributed to the relevant library of the School.

Application:

a) Cover sheet (at www.ascsa.edu.gr). b) A statement of the project (up to five pages), including desired number of months in Greece, a timetable, explicit goals, a selected bibliography, and the importance of the work, the methodologies involved, where applicable, and the reasons it should occur in Athens at the American School of Classical Studies. c) Curriculum vitae with list of publications. d) Three letters of reference from individuals familiar with the applicant's work and field of interest who can comment on the feasibility of the project and the applicant's ability to complete it successfully.

NEH FELLOWSHIPS APPLICATION INFORMATION 2008-2009

The following items constitute the application:

1. Cover sheet (see attached, next page).
2. A statement of the project (up to five pages), including desired number of months in Greece, a timetable, explicit goals, a selected bibliography, and the importance of the work, the methodologies involved, where applicable, and the reasons it should occur in Athens at the American School of Classical Studies. The applicant's name should appear on each page.
3. Current curriculum vitae, including a list of publications.
4. Three letters of reference from individuals familiar with your work and field of interest. These letters should comment on the feasibility of the project and the applicant's ability to carry it out successfully. Please include a list of names, positions, and addresses of the referees.

NEH Fellows will be expected to reside primarily in Athens, contribute to and enhance the scholarly dialogue, as well as contribute to and expand scholarly horizons at the School.

The following criteria will be used by the Selection Committee when considering applications.

1. Are the objectives and approaches clearly stated and coherent?
2. Will the project result in an important and original contribution?
3. Are the research perspectives and methodologies appropriate?
4. Is the projected timetable reasonable for the tenure of the fellowship?
5. What resources are necessary? Does the American School provide resources that are not available at the home institution?
6. Will residence in Greece contribute substantially to the success of the project?
7. Please address how you might contribute to, and enhance, the scholarly dialogue at the American School.
8. In what ways might this project expand scholarly horizons at the American School?

Applications should be postmarked, faxed, or e-mailed no later than December 1, 2007.
